Wood is founder of Christopher Todd Communities, a new Arizona-based development company with a specific, unique niche in horizontal multifamily communities. The company creates gated, technology-forward, rental communities comprised of single-story, single-family homes with front and backyards and community amenities.

Business advice: “Acquire as much knowledge in this vertical vocation as possible. Attend trade shows, seminars and conventions. Subscribe to industry periodicals and magazines. Obtain a master’s degree from an accredited university and then work for a large company, because they develop systems and processes that you will use your entire life.”
